

Southern European Seas: Assessing and Modelling Ecosystem changes

Latest News

- Two SESAME Stakeholder Forums have been successfully completed!

The first two of SESAME's Stakeholders Forums entitled 'Mediterranean & Black Sea: Science & Socio-Economic Management' have been successfully completed. The first took place in Varna, Bulgaria on 16 October, organised by IO-BAS, and the second one in Athens, held at the HCMR premises, on 21 October. Both forums presented the project to stakeholders and journalists and communicated the need for dialogue between scientists and policy makers. To see photos of the events, press clippings and the forum agendas, please visit the updated 'Policy Makers' area of the website, on the 'General Public' domain at <http://www.sesame-ip.eu/public/policy>.

- Meeting minutes from the WP1 meeting in Marseille, including the presentations, and minutes from the WP9 meeting in Haifa, are available online

The meeting minutes from the WP1 and WP9 meetings are both available online, in the 'Partners Only' area. To view the minutes and presentations, please log in at <http://www.sesame-ip.eu/scientist/partners-only>

- New deliverables online from WPs 1,4,8 online

- Proposal for a Doctoral School in Marine Environmental Sciences, 23/11/2009, Ghent, Belgium

Since October 2008, the ERASMUS MUNDUS Master of Science in Marine Biodiversity and Conservation (EMBC) was started in six universities. The member institutes of MarBEF participate in this program by means of thesis support and summer school. EU is funding this Master program by providing about 20 scholarships each year for non-EU students to attend this master program. The EMBC is inviting people to participate in a workshop on the establishment of a doctoral school in 'Marine environmental sciences', held November 23rd in Ghent, Belgium. For more information, please visit <http://www.marbef.org>.
